OUR GREAT PROGRESS: In various stages of negotiation, planning and design are approximately another 100 motel units. The residential community is becoming a bedroom community — for transients. And don't say it isn't...

AND MORE PROGRESS YET: Does anyone want to bet that there aren't at least seven more alcoholic beverage permits pending somewhere between moist ideas and the dry routine of the ABC permit procedures?

Quaint, aimless Carmel staggers on, still pretending.

This is a small newspaper, more like a person than a machine. It presses its shiny nose against the windowpane, devoured with curiosity about what's going on outside.

It responds to the stimulation of things which swarm across its vision as all human beings do, murmuring, laughing, remonstrating and consoling.

And, as all human beings do (though most would protest that they do not) we can become so absorbed in the light and shadow of human affairs that we momentarily forget our customary and pedestrian obligations. We think ourselves omnipotent, somehow absolved of duty, endowed with an exceptional license, exempted from the responsibility to do our particular task with solemn intensity.

But, suddenly an element in our spontaneous machinery founders. Then we know the parts that compose our fragile enterprise. And suddenly we see ourselves passing before the window, and discover once again what we always knew — but frequently forget — that we are as much a part of the scene that promenades before the windowpane as we are its audience. Such an event happened to us this week.

Woody Nelson is our advertising man. We have thought at times of calling him Director of Advertising

Auxiliary Issues Popular Directory

A creditable and rather surprising success in its first edition (1960), the Illustrated Directory published by the Auxiliary of the Community Hospital has gone on sale in a second (1963) edition.

For a land of box numbers and curious names, people who are retiring and sometimes restless when found out, the composition of the directory was a major undertaking. It is almost infallibly accurate, and contains, this time, request listings of boxholders in Marina, Monterey, Pacific Grove and Seaside.

But it is not alone as a utility that the directory has found affection and admiration: its pages are a striking show of the best work of a notable host of Peninsula photographers — whose creative and imaginative art form is all too often shunned.

Because of the photography, the book has found its way abroad and is a popular item with both visitors and residents alike.

Mrs. William Arley Smith, in charge of distribution, has announced that the directories, at $1.50, are now on sale.

We Got It Backwards Last Time

Last week we ran one picture supposedly illustrating the one-way proposal for Scenic Drive, and another picture showing Seventeenth Avenue, the street most affected by the diversion of traffic.

The Pine Cone, along with quite a few other people, apparently got it all backwards. So now we wish to correct the impression.

If the plan were adopted, southbound traffic on Scenic would be diverted left, into Valley Way and Seventeenth. Traffic coming out of the beach parking lot could proceed either right on Carmelo or left on Scenic, in northerly directions. Cars going south on Carmelo could continue right ahead into the lot, right on Seventeenth or right on Scenic. Valley Way traffic could go right but not left on Scenic or left on Seventeenth. Seventeenth traffic could go either way but not left on Scenic — if they can get out of the driveways. Understand?

If You Can't Saw It Off, Salute It; If You Can't Salute It, Paint It White

Councilman Herbert B. Blanks knows a man who's really mad.

He's so mad, that unless Herb gets the city to paint a tree limb white, encrust it with reflective brilliants, hang wind chimes on it, or erect a battle monument in its honor, he's going to sue the city into a deficit.

His name is (R.H.) and he hit his head on an overhanging limb of a pine tree on Sixth Avenue, between Dolores and Lincoln, the other day, and he wants justice or damage.

The Council, with characteristic determination, stalked the matter like a band of suspicious Indians scouting a pack train, then diverted the matter to their tour of inspection in July, apparently hoping that either the projecting tree limb or (R.H.) would soften up a bit by that time.

Otherwise, it was an uneventful evening. The Council gobbled up an attenuated agenda with zestful appetite, dispatching routine matters and continuing the contentious.

Among the matters put over in a fit of deep concern was a proposal of the Carmel Business Association that two-hour parking limits be imposed on Lincoln, be-

A POINT OF SOME CONFUSION

Which Way is the Traffic to Go?

The Pine Cone Straightens It Out

Last Tuesday, a stormy meeting at Holiday Inn, to which several of the 17 persons in attendance claimed they were not invited, proved at least one thing: the old Carmel spirit hasn't expired, it's just moved out to Carmel Point.

The dispute over which way the traffic is — or isn't — to go on Scenic Drive between Valley Way and the State beach parking lot at the end of Carmelo Street has become the subject of impasioned, gloriously confused maneuvering, manifestos and many gestures by imposing Italian fingers stirring among the plots and alarums.

The storm brewed up a few weeks ago when Harold Arnot quietly presented a petition to the Board of Supervisors asking that one-way traffic be installed on the section of Scenic which runs in front of his house. The petition, according to Arnot, had been prepared by a neighbor, Mrs. Annette Thorne, who had to go to Europe. And so, according to Arnot, in an excess of friendly accommodation he circulated the petition for Mrs. Thorne, and sent it to the Board of Supervisors. But ever since the astonished neighbors on Seventeenth discovered what was up, through a story carried in the Pine Cone two weeks ago, Arnot has been cajoling, soothing, maneuvering, denying, decrying and protesting every bit as much as if he were the protagonist in the matter. Certainly, he is the warmest, most resolute and blandly eloquent supporter of the one-way proposal, and to this moment the only one to openly speak in favor of it, though the petition reputedly had seven signers, all residents of Scenic.

One-Way Plan

A proposal, apparently made by Arnot (though the petition itself did not contain such a suggestion) wanted south-bound traffic diverted from Scenic at the conjunction of Valley Way and Seventeenth, and funneled off to the east.

We Won't Lose The Del Monte But Will The SP Regain It?

By LARRY ROSE

The Southern Pacific apparently is not going to get away with it; at least, not officially. The Public Utilities Commission has accused the company of deliberately contriving an atmosphere of shabbiness and inefficiency in its passenger service, with the hope that it can "walk away" from passenger activity altogether, after driving off the customers.

This it tried to do with the famous Del Monte Special, before asking the Commission for permission to abandon the train because it was not used by enough passengers and it was losing money.

Tuesday, the Commission sitting in San Francisco handed down a unanimous rejection of the SP's plea. Commissioner William M. Bennett sharply commented, "Southern Pacific's franchise to carry passengers is a government privilege. Applications to abandon that franchise are not to be measured by the sole test of profit and loss."

Observed Bennett in a separate concurring opinion, "In other proceedings before this commission, there has been evidence to the effect that management might well invite the charge of managerial featherbedding."

The Commission itself leaned hard on the SP. The application was "another step in a calculated campaign to abandon most, if not all, passenger service to the public in this state," it said in its decision.

Furthermore, the Commission adjured, SP was to abandon its inopportune departure time of 6:45 a.m. within thirty days of the order, and discover a more congenial time to leave Monterey, in the neighborhood of 8 a.m. It did nothing, however, to disturb the afternoon departure time from San Francisco.

The decision was unanimous, the comments stern and vehement, and the Southern Pacific has been roundly, soundly scolded. Now, it remains to be seen if they will sulk like a petulant child deprived of an indulgence, or will turn with sanguine energy to doing something about a condition which they claim to deplore, for which they have been reproached, and be-

No. 11

There's many a man who is rocking the boat, who shouldn't have ventured from shore; and something you quote in letter you wrote when you should have been minding the store.

So likewise there's squares in some circular holes; there's singers with nothing but blow; and actors and clerks in obscurity roles, who ought to be running the show.

There's doctors and lawyers and painters and cooks, mechanics and carvers of wood, and chemists and cabbies and coppers and crooks who'd like to trade jobs if they could.

Take me for example — there's nothing to hide — my talents amount to but trash; I'd swallow my pride, and be quite satisfied with a blonde and a million in cash.

FIRE CALLIs Anyone Hurt?

Whenever there is a general alarm, every piece of equipment under the command of the Carmel Fire Department responds to the alarm, including the Red Cross ambulance. Inexplicably, most witnesses assume that ghastly injury, even death, has occurred, though the alarm may have resulted from nothing more wicked than a contained grease fire in a flue, or a smoke scare in a principle building.

Then, why does the ambulance roll? Quite simply, because all persons trained in first aid and operation of the ambulance are also members of the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department. Authorities have reasoned that, should an emergency call come in while the volunteers are fighting a fire, it is quicker to have the ambulance where the men are, than to call them off the fire, send them frantically seeking a means of returning to the fire house to man the ambulance, and in the meanwhile dissipate the meaningful moments of life that may hang suspended blocks or miles away in a corner of the Red Cross district served by the ambulance.

Additionally, every fire is capable of causing maiming or incapacitating accidents. The presence of the ambulance on the scene might make the difference between life and death. For this reason, think the Department authorities, it is well to have the resource present. And the yare right in apprehending the possibilities, even though they have fortunately seldom arisen.

Stealthy flames early last Tuesday morning consumed a quantity of papers, frame materials and stock in the Bob Ackerman picture framing shop on Lincoln Street immediately north of the Cypress West Hotel.

The terrifying threat of fire routed Jeanie Klenke, Helen Cook and Gerald Stout from their apartments in the curious frame cottage, a noted vestige of the older Carmel.

Besides the frame studio, the Helen LeFeuvre art gallery and the M. DeNeale Morgan studio are contained in the structure.

Smoke, water and heat did extensive, but as yet unassessed damage, to the building and its contents. All equipment and 28 volunteers responded to the sudden shriek of the siren at 6 a.m. The blaze was brought under control within 45 minutes, but it rekindled at 9:52 a.m., resulting in a second general alarm which turned out 17 volunteers in a response soon found to be unnecessary, as the flareup was promptly quenched while the general alarm was still resounding.

No injuries were sustained. A number of volunteers suffered from smoke inhalation in the close and acrid atmosphere during the fire. Regular fireman Maurice Grimshaw also suffered smoke sickness, and so did Stan Hilbert, a former volunteer, who happened on the scene and was helping in removing paintings from the building.

In the two alarms the department laid 1,200 feet of 2.5-inch hose, 600 feet of 1.5-inch hose and 200 feet of high pressure line.

CEREMONIESIn Bonds of Amity

The ceremonial act making the City of Petra on the Mediterranean island of Majorca, a sister city of Carmel-by-the-Sea, was completed last Monday when Mayor Eben Whittlesey gave to the Mayor of Petra the resolution of the City of Carmel uniting the two towns in bonds of amity.

Earl Warren, Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court, who is the leading member of the American delegation attending ceremonies commemorating the 250th anniversary of the birth of the saintly Father Junipero Serra in the small agricultural Balearic Islands town, was made a "beloved son."

President Kennedy sent a message. Mayor Samuel Yorty of Los Angeles placed a commemorative wreath on a statue of Serra, and Bishop Joseph Guilfoyle of San Francisco said a solemn high mass in the church.

The special gown prepared in Carmel for Mayor and Mrs. Whittlesey's daughter, Debbie, has proven useful as well as ornamental. Upon arrival, she was selected Queen of the Fiesta, and has since reigned over many festivities.

Major Eben Whittlesey and his family have been warmly welcomed in Petra, Majorca, where they are attending the ceremonies marking the 250th anniversary of the birth of Father Junipero Serra in that island farming town. Together with a number of distinguished Californians, led by Chief Justice Earl Warren — who last Monday missed his first decision day of the U.S. Supreme Court in 10 years, because of the ceremonies — our Mayor, the mayors of San Francisco and Los Angeles, the Lieutenant Governor, Glenn Anderson, and numerous church dignitaries are witnessing and participating in a week-long series of celebrations.

Mass

Last Saturday, sturdy farmers and their wives, dressed in their Sunday best, filled the 14th century Oratorio de San Bernardino — the church where Serra worshipped as a boy — to hear a solemn High Mass.

Museum

After the church service they visited the Serra Museum.

Petra is a farming town of 4,000 people on Majorca, the largest of the Balearic Islands, on a plain rich with wheat fields, almond and olive trees, vineyards and carob trees.

Saturday night the Californians warmly applauded a midnight concert in the Cloister of St. Francis in Palma, given by pianist Jose Iturbi, a native of Spain.

Iturbi, who flew from Hollywood for the occasion, played Beethoven's Piano Concerto in C Minor accompanied by the Spanish National Orchestra under Rafael Frühbeck de Burgos.

For Service Rendered

A service award dinner honoring 78 employees of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company will be held 7 June at the Corral de Tierra Country Club, Salinas.

This year a total of 2,838 PG&E men and women will be given service awards. They're employed throughout the company's 47-county Northern and Central California service area. The largest segment — a group of 943 — will get 15 year emblems.

Those to be honored for 20 or more years number 638.

Kent Clark and J. C. Mello of Carmel will receive 15-year service awards from M. A. Wood, District Manager.

Scout Awards

Presentation of Silver Beaver awards for noteworthy service of exceptional character to boyhood will highlight the 30th annual meeting of the Monterey Bay Area Boy Scout council on Saturday evening.

The event, to be held at the Corral de Tierra Country Club, will also feature installation of officers and executive board members from the counties of Monterey, San Benito, and Santa Cruz. Oliver Aubrey of Santa Cruz, chairman of the nominating committee, will conduct the installation.

Silver Beaver awards are presented annually to Scouting who have had distinguished service in Scouting over a period of years. The local Scout council is eligible to present three awards.

Austin Hayes of King City, a holder of the Silver Beaver and chairman of the presentations this year, will preside at the ceremony. He will be assisted by former recipients of this high award.

Reservations for this dinner are being handled by William Fisher of Watsonville, council commissioner and reservation chairman.

Emeritus Fete

Honoring fifteen years of service to a school district which has boomed in size during his administration and climbed to distinction under his guidance, a reception will be held Sunday feting Stuart Mitchell on the advent of his retirement.

The reception is open to the public and hundreds of friends, former students and members of the faculty and administration are expected to attend.

Commencing at 3 p.m. in the library of Carmel Junior High School, the informal social gathering will continue until 5 p.m.

There will be no speeches.

BUSINESSA New Egg

Nepenthe, the Big Sur restaurant (state of mind, group therapy, etc.) which uses the Phoenix bird as its signature, is hatching a new egg.

An addition will be opened in April, 1964. Cantilevered off the main parking lot, it will consist of a gift shop with snack service, including fine cheeses, wine and beer and will operate the year round. Hand-crafted items from all over the world will be offered with very small mark-ups, as well as wholesale products. The management says these will not duplicate nor be in competition with any of the local products.

The shop will also stock its own anthology of Big Sur poets in single form — a sort of do-it-yourself poetry library.

Concerts will also be offered there.

To be built by the architectural firm of Goodhue and Hall, the building will be constructed with old timbers from the Highway One bridges and will retain the same style and feeling as Nepenthe.

WRITING"The Writer's Imagination"

Bringing together authors from throughout the country, a 14-15 June conference on "The Writer's Imagination" is planned by the University Extension department of Arts and Humanities at UCLA.

To reinforce the conference studies, concentrated classes and workshops are planned from 17 June to 26 July.

The gatherings will not be a "trade conference," according to Mrs. Rosalind Loring of the sponsoring department, but are particularly planned for those interested in achieving excellence in writing. Conference sessions in the UCLA Economics Building will run from 7:30 to 10 p.m. on Friday, 14 June and from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, 15 June.

Major conference speakers will include Dr. Bernice Eiduson, Director of Research, Reiss-Davis Clinic for Child Guidance in Los Angeles, Dr. Donald W. MacKinnon, Professor of Psychology and Director of the Institute of Personality Assessment and Research at the University in Berkeley, Ray Bradbury, author of short stories and science fiction novels.

Information concerning the conference, classes and workshops may be secured from the department of Arts and Humanities, University Extension, UCLA, Los Angeles 24.

MEDICINEAirborne Band-Aids

In cooperation with the "Operation Nightingale" nurse-recruiting drive the chief nurse section of Fort Ord Hospital has announced that volunteers are being sought as para-nurses. To qualify, applicants must be registered male nurses in top physical condition; a predisposition for adventure and excitement is an added requisite.

Male nurses who volunteer will be commissioned according to their educational background and experience. They will attend basic airborne school at Fort Benning, Georgia, a four week course requiring five parachute jumps prior to graduation. Once assigned to a division they will be members of a surgical team, parachute. All equipment used by these teams is parachutable, and the parachute canopy may serve as the "roof" of the operating room.

EVENTSHorse Show

One of California's premier saddle horse events — the San Benito County Saddle Horse Show and Rodeo — is being readied for its 30th annual presentation at Bolado Park near here 21-23 June.

With its slogan, "Where the Arts of the Vaquero are Kept Alive and Old California Comes Into Its Own," the show will present 300 contestants, all from San Benito County, in nine arena and 21 track contests plus trick riders and performers.

Bolado Park is one of the most comfortable places in the State to view such an event with opera-type chair seats in a concrete and steel covered grandstand nestled in the midst of a 100-acre recreational area.

During the week of the Watts-Varda seminar and workshop, Mrs. LaVerne Allen, curator of the Coast Gallery, will have on display many of Mr. Varda's collages, representative works of this artist who lives on a ferry boat in the San Francisco Bay area, and who excels in the use of color.

MPC Graduation

Two eminent men will participate in the commencement exercises at Monterey Peninsula College 13 June.

Dean E. McHenry, chancellor of the University of California at Santa Cruz, will deliver the principal address, and the Rev. Clarence P. Shedd, a pioneer in the field of religion in higher education, will deliver the baccalaureate address.

A native Californian, Chancellor McHenry was statewide academic assistant to the president of the University of California from 1958-60 and dean of academic planning from 1960-63.

He will speak on "New Directions in Higher Education" at the MPC commencement.

Dr. Shedd, Stephen Merrell Clement Professor Emeritus of Christian Methods at Yale University, retired from the Yale faculty in 1955 after 32 years of service. He has for many years been an international leader in training young people for college religious ministries as secretaries of the YMCA and YWCA, denominational university pastors, college chaplains and teachers of religion. Under his leadership Yale developed the first graduate professional training program for college religious leadership, giving graduate degrees of B.D., M.A. and Ph.D.

The MPC baccalaureate service will be held at 3 p.m. in the library, the commencement at 4:30 in the college stadium.

The Carmel Business Association, with the patient cooperation of Barnard's Stationery on San Carlos Street, operates a lost-and-found system. Merchants who find lost items in their stores call Mrs. Barnard (MA 4-3715) and report the find to her. They also direct inquiries to her, for coordination. If you believe that you have lost an item while shopping in Carmel, try calling Barnard's and, of course, the Police Department. SPORTS CARS

A Full Schedule

Regional sports car races will augment the Laguna Seca U.S. Road Racing Championships this weekend. They will take place Friday and Saturday, preceding two U.S. Road Racing Championships on Sunday.

A full starting grid for the modified car races has been reported, including two rare Italian coupes—a Maserati 4 liter, and one of seven Ferrari GTO's in America. Skip Hudson, Riverside, will drive the Maserati, and Frank Crane, Redwood City, will handle the Ferrari.

Other potent modifieds include Ken Miles, Hollywood, Dolphin-Porsche special; Charles Parsons, Monterey, Lotus 23; Danno Raffetto, Placerville, Ferrari Corvette; Art Snyder, Gardena, BMC Genie; fulness, has invited contestants to enter the Festival of Kerry in Ireland, by writing to Mr. John Whooley, director, at 1255 Post Street, San Francisco. Since both Pon Chung and Victor Velissaratos are disqualified by technicalities (they're Scots) the field is wide open.

Contestants may wish to carefully inquire into the first prize, "an all-expense trip to Ireland." This statement does not make clear who will pay the expenses. And it leaves interestingly unmentioned the matter of returning to Carmel. Whoosh!

Ron Dykes, Palo Alto, Maserati Tipo 61; and Walt Maas, Mountain View, Porsche-Cooper.

East Bay residents Paul Reinhardt, Bill Sherwood and Red Faris are leading contenders to take the big production race with their Corvette Stingrays.

Racing begins at 1 p.m. on Friday and Saturday. Sunday's 150-mile manufacturer's race starts at 12:30 p.m. and the 150-mile, $5,000 purse, drivers' championship begins at 3.

The Tough League

This Saturday at 2 p.m., Carmel will, for the first time, inject its fortunes into the tough and competitive Connie Mack League, fielding a rugged team at the high school diamond, composed in part of stars from the Carmel High School team which ended its season tied with King City for the conference "B" championship.

The team is managed by Daryl Hadley (Pine Cone '63) a seasoned pitcher with experience in the majors. (Braves and Giants.) The team has been organized by George Thaler, Boyd Huff and John Wecker.

ConMack ball (16 to 18 years) is at the apex of the ambitious trail that commences with Little League teams, and therefore represents a gleaming of top talent. And yet, as much because of its newness as anything else, it is anxiously in need of support, from fans as well as financiers.

The team is:

Pitchers — Jerry Huff, Bob Holmes, Steve Johnson, Chris Marvin;

Infield — Jay Lang, Bob Moffatt, Jim Farrow, Lydie Mahrt, Howdie King, Robin Smith, Al Tegtmeier;

Catchers — Charlie Davis, Terry Wecker, George Thaler;

Outfield — Ralph Juarez, Bill Stowers, Mike Oakey, Larry Sheingold, Mike Brasher.

A $56,000 stallion who dotes on Coca Cola will be at Pebble Beach on Sunday. He is "Captain Topper," reputedly the greatest model stallion (so-called because he is a Shetland pony and not necessarily because of his deportment), in history, owned by Patricia Burton of Burton Farms, Dryden, Michigan. He is coming as the traveling companion of "Mr. Mike," another Shetland, which is being presented to Mrs. Byington Ford, for Children's House, a home for retarded children in Carmel Valley.

Guests at the invitational presentation on the lawn in front of Del Monte Lodge, will also be served Coca Cola.

Where There's Life...

By Andre Hope

When I was learning my manners as well as my mission in life my mother told me to remember that a lady is always a good listener. I don't know about the "lady" part, but I've found the advice most helpful in my avowed professional as a life-long snoop. Sometimes, however, you over-hear bits and pieces of conversations which you really didn't mean to. One such came accidentally to my attention at a restaurant the other night and it proceeded somewhat in this fashion. An attractive young couple seats itself next to us and they are scowling. She is wearing a summery suit and he is garbed in a sweat shirt with built-in high dudgeon. They attack steaks and each other simultaneously. "Who are you?" — "Is this who you are?" — "That waiter looks like your cousin, Al; smarmy." — "Embroidered, mixed-up." — "Yes, with roquefort, if it's the real stuff, ewe's milk and all that" — "You think you're so big — so bad — all the time!" — "Since when did you start taking crea min your coffee?" — "Well, let's take a peek at your libido!" — "What are these people doin'? Nothin'!" — Whatever I'm doin', I'm roin' it. And so is Judy Garland." — "So, what about Danny Kaye?" — "Everything has plastic covers." — "When are you going to spend a complete week-end with your children?" — "They hate each other, but at least they're in love." — "Money, money, money!" After they left I felt a touch ashamed of myself, but maybe I was giggling a little self-consciously because the people at the next table leaned over and said, "If you missed anything let us fill you in." And they did.

More pleasantly heard while dining at a friend's apartment was a husky, young army officer singing his baby girl to sleep. The rocking chair creaked with vigor and in a loud and slightly off-key voice with all the stops out, he was giving a quite authentic rendition of "St. Louis Woman."

Another thing one hears a great deal is people complaining about the service in various establishments, as though they were somehow set apart from the people who are taking care of them. I find it a comforting thought to contemplate that all of us, except the very young and the entirely retired serve each other. Everyone offers his own particular talents to everyone else from the first day on the job. If you are a chiropodist's wife, today's saleslady with sore feet may be your husband's patient tomorrow.

Always you may tune in the sounds of nature; some loving, some soothing, some humorous, others beautiful, frightening or made in anger. Of the latter we have heard too much recently in our land. As a gardener one can take lessons. Have you noticed that man's fabrication can often produce colors of unbelievable disarray? In nature all things which spring from common soil, given equal care, love and nourishment, flourish side by side as perfect compliments to one another, seeming, in fact, to need the contrast for true perfection. Listen, look and understand.

The Intrepid Virginia

The Winds and Waves 98 Years Later

About the time the guns of the War-between-the-States stopped booming, a shipbuilder along Fish River in Alabama launched the 45-foot, two-master luxury schooner Virginia.

Now, 98 years later, the Virginia is still braving the winds and waves of the Gulf of Mexico—not as a pleasure boat, but as the oldest known vessel in the American commercial fishing fleet. Her present owner predicts that a century hence the Virginia will still be seaworthy and active.

Attention has been focused on the Virginia as the result of a study by the Department of the Interior to determine the age of the Nation's fishing fleet. The recently released compilation merely listed the Alabama-built schooner as the most venerable.

The 98-year-old Virginia began her commercial fishing career comparatively recently—in 1946—after a five-year turn as a charter boat for sport fishermen. Her long history before that was not part of the fleet-age study.

The vessel now is based at Tampa, Fla. Her present owner is James F. Kirby, who purchased the craft in 1956. Those who have seen the boat in action in and out of Florida ports assert she is "strong as the Rock of Gibraltar." Her keel and ribs are black walnut and the planking is black cypress, two inches thick.

For nearly three-quarters of a century the Virginia traveled under sail. But 25 years ago the masts were removed and bunk facilities for 11 were taken out. A superstructure of combined pilot house and cabin was installed along with an engine.

The vessel has a gross tonnage of 14 and can carry 20,000 pounds of iced fish, although the usual cargo is about 5,000 pounds. She can stay at sea 30 days, but generally makes 20 fishing trips a year. Her occupants no longer are people on a pleasure trip, but a crew of two to four, fishing for snapper and grouper, so popular at the dinner table.

The Virginia is known as a hand-liner because the catches are made by lines on hand-operated reels. One electric reel has been installed and the owner intends to replace the other hand-operated reels in the near future. An automatic pilot, depth recorder, and fishfinder are also part of her modern equipment.

Because the history of the Virginia was limited to cold statistical facts obtained by the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries from vessel registry maintained by the Bureau of Customs, the many adventures the schooner must have had in her 98 years of existence still remain untold. The Federal study concerned only with her fishing saga, the latest chapter of which will probably be a cruise to the Campeche, Mexico, snapper banks.

The Business Community of Carmel

Seldom does anyone stop to consider how extensive and how diversified a business community can be.

The names of people are far less familiar than the names of the shops, inns and restaurants. Kip's is not really Kip's; it's Bill Smith. And the Marberry Shop is not somebody named Marberry — but it almost is; it's Margaret Berry. And though Gladys McCloud is none other than Gladys McCloud, and Pilot Market is Walt Pilot, Spencer's House of Cards is Louis Staples and Blue Pacific Developers is R. P. Spencer. That is not only confusing, it is evolutionary.

But, when it seems most distressing, there is comfort in the fact that Tally-Ho is actually Thompson McCrea, and not an English-Korean partnership; that the Robert John Shop is not a place to buy useful items of vitrious china, but an elegant leather shop run by Mary Sargent; and that the Carmel Builders Supply supplies no builders but simply supplies builders. With supplies.

The Carmel Business Association has just published the roster of members. It constitutes a dictionary of Carmel business, in effect, and names, names and styles which are as curious as they are informative. Here is the complete list.

The Lively ArtsPAINTING*Patron of the Arts

Enthusiastic and successful in his efforts to acquire a number of paintings for his Carmel Sands motel, Bob Little hit the recent Beacon House benefit auction at the Mission Ranch like a Renaissance patron. He was high bidder for works by Burton Boundey, Sam Colburn, Wayne Dye, Jon Graves, Tom Hamil, Roger Hope, Eleanor Taylor James, Alvan Bernad Palm, Loretta Petersen, Stanley Pearce, Doris Roht, C. J. Ryland, R. Hans Sherman, Suzanne Von Menigerhagen, A. G. Warshawsky; also, some "Yogi Bear" and "Huckleberry Hound" cartoons.

Bob's intent in hanging his newly-acquired gallery in the motel is not alone as decoration, but to introduce out-of-town guests to the work and worth of Carmel artisans.

Albers Theory

Oils and watercolors by the late Emil Nolde, master of the early 20th century German expressionist school, will be shown at the San Francisco Museum of Art through 23 June. "Interaction of Color," a presentation of paintings and the color theory of Josef Albers, organized by the Yale University Press, and the Museum's recent acquisitions will be shown for a month, starting 7 June.

New Show

New paintings and sculpture are featured in a summer showing which has been arranged by a hanging committee chaired by Jeanette M. Lewis for the Carmel Art Association galleries. The show opened yesterday.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Association will be held at the gallery on 10 June, at 7:30 p.m.

Do Bos and Roberts

Throughout this month the Artits Guild of America, Inc., is exhibiting the works of Andrew Do Bos and George D. Roberts, Jr.

Mr. Do Bos, a resident of Chicago, is recognized as one of America's outstanding artists in "Who's Who in American Art." Some of his prize-winning paintings now hang in the Springfield (Illinois) Museum; the Hilton Hotel, Chicago, and in the collections of many private art patrons.

Mr. Roberts, a resident of Los Altos, recently completed a series of fifty related landscapes from which his exhibits for this show have been chosen. He is a Fellow of the Society of Western Artists.

MUSICA Rush for Lenie

Though several thousand tickets are still available for the performance in Monterey on 31 August of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra under the baton of Leonard Bernstein, few of them will get into the hands of Peninsula hopefuls if they do not move faster than people in Portland, Oregon and Las Vegas, to secure them. The number of orders in the first few days received by the San Francisco entrepreneurs, Dana Attractions, Inc., has been exceeded only by the early advance orders for the memorable performance of the Russian Bolshoi Ballet, and they are arriving from all over the western states.

The concert, sponsored by the Monterey Academy of Achievement, is the only western appearance of the distinguished orchestra other than in Los Angeles. The program has yet to be announced.

Tickets, priced at $10, $6 and $4, may be obtained by writing to Dama Attractions, Inc., N B C Building, 420 Taylor St., San Francisco 2. Public sales here will not commence until late June. The first tickets, in either event, will not be delivered until July.

Bowman Concert

This Sunday, 2 p.m. at the Forest Theater, the students of the well-known teacher, Nancy Ness Bowman, will appear in concert. The group of 17 has made five Monterey County appearances in the past month.

In addition to those pictured will be Ted Cross, Ann Penoyer, Mark Vance, Bob Cater, Louise Davenport, Norm Cater and Carl Burger.

The program should have popular appeal as it features excerpts from the operas, "The Magic Flute," "Carmen," and "Tosca"; and from Broadway musicals, "South Pacific," "Carousel," "Sound of Music," "My Fair Lady" and "Show Boat."

There will be no admission charge.

Come to Order

All members of the Monterey County Symphony Association are asked to attend the annual meeting 12 June, 8 p.m. in the Carmel High School cafeteria.

On the agenda will be election of officers for the 1963-64 term and presentation of final reports for the current year.

Chorus Finale

Tomorrow evening at 8:30 p.m., Monterey Peninsula College's last musical presentation for the Spring semester will be presented in the Music Hall.

Featuring the chorus under the direction of Dr. Harvey Marshall and the College Singers, directed by John Erickson, a well balanced program will be presented to the public, without charge.

The Longest Season

The San Francisco Opera Company will present 32 San Francisco performances 13 Sept. to 31 Oct., 19 performance in Los Angeles 1-24 November, three performances in San Diego 7-21, Nov., and one performance each in Berkeley, 20 Oct., and Sacramento, 28 Oct.

of the company. In observance of the 150th anniversary of the birth of Giuseppe Verdi, the opera "Aida" by Verdi will be presented as the opening performance 13 Sept.

Harpsichory

Ralph Kirkpatrick, widely regarded as America's leading concert harpsichordist, will be the first Ernest Bloch Professor of Music at the University of California here next year.

He will give concerts and lectures, and will also conduct a workshop for keyboard performers. He is on the music faculty at Yale University, and is currently recording the complete keyboard works of Bach on the harpsichord and clavichord.

The new professorship is named for Ernest Bloch, the late composer, who was a professor of music here. It was established by Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Haas from the Jacob and Rosalie Stern Music Fund.

Old Favorites Return

Scheduled for the week of 19 July through 28 July, the twenty-sixth annual Carmel Bach Festival will have not only old favorites returning, but the addition of new members who will be participating for the first time as soloists. Among the latter will be Carole Bogard and Carol Todd, sopranos; Mary MacKenzie, contralto; Orville White and George Gibson, basses; and Joan Benson, Clavichord.

Soloists returning after an absence of several years will be Lenoir Hosack, mezzo-soprano; Paul Mayo, tenor; Robert Oliver, bass; and Ralph Hokinson, Piano.

The famous harpsichordist, Alice Ehlers, will perform as well as Ralph Linsley, who will be celebrating his twenty-fifth anniversary with the Festival. Sandor Salgo will again conduct.

THEATER

The Company Arrives

This week the acting company will be arriving at White Oaks Summer Theatre to commence rehearsals for the opening show, "The Philadelphia Story." Independently contracted for the summer season are fourteen young dedicated performers who will be studying and performing at the Carmel Valley Theatre this summer. White Oaks auditions over one hundred singers, actors, and dancers annually in Carmel Valley, Los Angeles, and San Francisco. Each performer accepted into the company is contracted for one major role during the season and is assigned additional roles upon arrival.

During the fourteen weeks they are in residency, the morning hours are spent in classes in Acting, Dance, and Voice, the afternoons in rehearsal, and, of course, the evenings in performance. This is a busy schedule. Room and board are provided — Lazy Oaks for housing and Totsie's and The Coffee Shop for dinner and breakfast.

The productions scheduled for this summer are "The Philadelphia Story," "The Fantasticks," "Little Mary Sunshine," a production for the younger members of the community entitled "Greensleeves' Magic," and five concerts. The first concert of the season will be presented on two consecutive Wednesday nights — 3 July and 10 July — and is titled "Love Scenes from Musical Theatre." Works of the 18th and 19th century will be represented as well as excerpts from modern musicals.

Reservations are now being taken for all performances.

"Beggars" Bow

"Beggars" Bow at Bough

A rather raunchy character name of Macheath (sometimes known as "mac, the knife") has a habit of revisiting the Golden Bough Theatre every 33 years or so. In 1930 he appeared at the Studio Theatre of the Golden Bough in the American (English language) premier of "The Thrip'ny Opera" by Bert Brecht with score by Kurt Weill; who may be remembered among other works for his "Knickerbocker Holiday." It was translated from the German by Edward Kuster and was casually based on John Gay's "Beggar's Opera," popular in London since the 18th Century and recently revived as a motion picture with Sir Laurence Olivier. The Carmel version starred Morris Ankrum, mainstay of the Pasadena Playhouse and motion picture villain of the '40s, and Ruth Marion.

An updated version of the "Beggar's Opera," sans three pennies, will open at the Golden Bough Circle Theatre Friday evening, 7 June, repeating Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays through 21 July.

Directed by Ted Huffman, who has made his own arrangement of the music, the piece will embody choreography by Arlene Garver, recor by Barbara Tripp and costumes by Merle Huffman. A cast of 20 local actors will supply the lyricism accompanied by pianist Camille Oleata.

SCULPTING

Media in Red

The American Federation of Arts is offering a class in sculpture by David Tolerton, one time resident of Big Sur, 17 June through 20 June in bungalow #17 at Sunset School, 9 a.m. to 12 noon. The media will be red modeling clay and plaster. It will be open to beginners as well as experienced sculptors.

Among Mr. Tolerton's many well known works is the fountain in the recently completed Zellerback Building, San Francisco.

Further information may be obtained by calling MA 4-2918.

MUSEUMS

Versailles in SF

"Treasures of Versailles," a superb collection of 184 paintings, sculptures, tapestries, furniture and decorative objects from the Palace of Versailles near Paris, loaned by the French Government, headline San Francisco museum attractions during June. The collection is being shown at the California Palace of the Legion of Honor in Lincoln Park through 7 July.

Each day except Mondays and Tuesdays, Mrs. Jane Kastner, curator of education, will give a lecture, illustrated by slides, at 10:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. (admission free) about the art works displayed and about the Versailles Palace.

MOTION PICTURES

Summer Films

An engrossing study of life in the humid depths of South African society, "Come Back, Africa!" is the last presentation for the season of the Theater Arts Group at Monterey Peninsula College. The film will be shown at 7:00 and 9:00 p.m., a week from Friday, and tickets will be available next week at the MPC administration building.

The two special summer film series will include three programs on "The American Film" and three "for the entire family." There will be no charge. Tickets for single programs or all of them are available in the order in which mailed requests are received by the Summer Session Director.

Scheduled for June are:

"The 5,000 fingers of Dr. T," one of the most entertainly humorous of all fantasy films. This is the story of a boy's nightmarish dread of his piano lessons and teacher. Hans Conreid plays the villain, Dr. Twerilliker. In color, and written by Dr. Seuss. Though a favorite of film buffs, it's for the entire family. Friday, 21 June, 7 p.m., Music Hall.

"The Western Film," a lecture by Arthur Knight, film critic for The Saturday Review and professor of motion pictures, USC, illustrated by two films on Billy the Kid — one a humorous cartoon, the other a psychologically fascinating study of the bandit called "The Left Handed Gun." Friday, 28 June, 8 p.m., Music Hall. This is the first program in the "American Film" series.

Detels-Doud Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. John Francis Doud of Carmel, are this week announcing the engagement of their daughter, Mimi, to Dr. Roger Detels of New York.

Mimi, who is the descendant of a pioneer Monterey Peninsula family, was the 1960 La Favorita at the Monterey Merienda. On her great grandfather's table was written the Constitution for the State of California. She is a cousin of Miss Anita Doud and Francis Doud of Monterey, as well as James Doud of Carmel. A graduate of Santa Catalina School for Girls, Mimi has attended Dominican College in San Raphael as well as the University of Arizona in Tucson. She is presently enrolled at Monterey Peninsula College.

Dr. Detels is a Harvard graduate and received his medical degree from New York University. He is also a recipient of a fellowship at the University of Washington Medical Center.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Detels, Roger's parents, have arrived from their home in Plandome, New York, to celebrate the occasion and to visit their long time friends, the Douds. Also on the scene is a cousin, Peter Crooker, who is stationed at the U.S. Naval Post-graduate School in Monterey.

A September wedding is planned after which the couple will reside in Seattle, where both will be studying at the University of Washington.

Sale for Carmel Artist

Painting under the name of Beatrice M. Wheelock, Mrs. Charles D. Wheelock of Carmel, has just sold her two entries in the National Smithsonian Gallery, Washington, D.C., under the auspices of the Miniature Painter's, Sculptor's and Gravers Society.

She has been exhibiting and selling at this annual show in the Nation's Capitol for the past thirteen years.

Mrs. Wheelock is the wife of Admiral Charles D. Wheelock (Ret.), former president of the American Federation of Arts.

Diploma in Hand

Robert Norris Kahn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen B. Kahn, Carmel, from Verde Valley School, Sedona, Arizona. Robert was a member of the social committee as well as the drama group. He also served as manager of the student store. He will matriculate next Fall at Reed College.

From San Jose State College, 7 June: Charles D. Baird, B.A., Art; Howard S. Byrne, M.A., industrial arts; Joan R. Garoutte, B.A., general elementary; Annette L. Smith, B.S., accounting.

All of these students are residents of Carmel.

From Pebble Beach: Edwin L. Plowman, B.A., mathematics.

Pretty Girl—1963

A champagne and cake reception was held the evening of 3 June by friends at the Hacienda Carmel, to celebrate the 10 May wedding of famous cartoonist George Petty and Mrs. Elizabeth Dennison Hetzler, both residents of the retirement community located in Carmel Valley, where they first met.

Holding a cake knife instead of the white phone made famous by the Petty girls in Esquire magazine, the new Mrs. Petty is a mother of two and grandmother of two. She was a Chicago resident until her recent move to California.

George Petty formerly had an art studio in Chicago and it was there in 1935 that a friend suggested that he see a new magazine for men that was looking for cartoons. This resulted in his twenty-five year connection with "Esquire."

His son, George, Jr., and daughter Margie, who once modeled for his drawings, are now both California residents.

Cleo on the Rocks

This is not, as it may appear, the name of a new libation, even though it will make its appearance at the Nepenthe Restaurant, Big Sur, this fall.

It seems that Miss Elizabeth Taylor will be appearing in a film titled "The Sandpiper." The story of a lovesick beatnik (an uncommon bird) which will require the shooting of many scenes at the establishment.

According to owner, Bill Fasset, he had given his permission at a time when he thought Miss Kim Novak, a friend and Big Sur resident, would be essaying the role. Great pleasure in the event has not been evinced by Bill, who notes that this will be his busy season and the confusion is enough without added pandemonium. He may be happy to know that possibly he will not have to take on the Burton burden as well.

The site for this coastal caper might well have been chosen in view of the fact that it takes place in Henry Miller country. Erotica abounds.

Pink and Blue Motif

Winning blue ribbons are—
Mr. and Mrs. Archie T. Crampton of Carmel, whose prize-winner Ross Walker arrived 27 May.

Michael Joseph is in the azure at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kurt, Carmel, as of 31 May.

In the pink is Miss Tracey Ann, born to Mr. and Mrs. John Hilpert of Carmel Valley, 29 May.

All is also rosy at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gerald Luster, Pebble Beach, in honor of Carrie Lynn; born 25 May.

 (in lieu of a respectable salary) or Advertising Accounts Executive, which is as imposing and breath-taking a salutation as has occurred to us for some time. But it always comes out as the guy who takes care of advertising, a minor semantic defeat.

Well, Woody became ill last Sunday; nothing critical, simply an earnest stomach upset with no regard for deadlines.

Suddenly, we were tossed upon the jagged shoals of our own insufficiency. I have no idea how the finely-honed gears of a proper newspaper would compensate for such a malfunction of its machinery. We practically ground to a halt. Except that there were deep and impulsive resources all around us, and in our midst.

We are arranged like the Wizard of Oz, an impenetrable and ostentatious front with nought behind it.

Maggie mans the front desk as if it were the Foreign and Domestic Office of a sovereign government. Andre and Valentine gather news, and write about it as if it were magical and obsessive. Dave is devoted to books which seem remote from literary importance but have journalistic significance. They tell us whether we eat or not. Lately, we have been eating.

And in the "back shop," The Fletcher, John, Daryl and Ned set in type, compose and print the urgent, the trivial and the urbane syllables which have been put together in a sort of chronicle of our times.

And then, Ruth and Vi, Phyllis, Doris, Loretta, Barbara, and Evelyn appear upon the scene on Thursday to assemble the paper, wrap it, mail it and make it ready for Hell's Angels, our precious children who vend our wares upon the streets and sidewalks of Carmel, trusting with unswerving confidence (or sublime indifference) that we have provided a marketable commodity.

But when Woody is taken sick, we know we are human beings. And give thanks that we are.

Marvelously, somebody fills the gap. Maggie plunges into the pungent oblivion of advertising service. Andre pounds her typewriter until an eloquent smoke of verbiage swirls around the press room. The Fletcher is up when Carmel is asleep, assembling words and phrases into something you may pass over, even as you read this, but something which is a sincere effort to make translucent the windowpanes through which we have watched you.

And I run unexpected errands. Last week, it was my birthday. When the paper was finally on the street, small, tender gifts appeared on my desk. And I was wreathed about with warm affection, something I would be the first to protest I hardly warrant.

But felicity moves us all, and the fact that we are a small, personal newspaper allows someone to sneak an antic into the press (which would never have passed by my erratic proof-reading). "Happy Birthday, Larry."

The finely-tuned contractions of a big machine would spasm over such an irregularity. But not the Pine Cone.

I thank them all for that, because it was spontaneous, human and immensely personal.

I thank them all for taking up a share of Woody's task, so that you will have our supporting merchants' message, and there will be no white spaces to make you wonder, "What's wrong with the Pine Cone this week?"

I'll tell you what's wrong, if you feel that way: We caught a glimpse of ourselves through the window.

And I am glad to be reassured that the act of putting words on paper is still the act of feeling human beings, and not the cold, remorseless function of a machine.

A new series of popular science books is being published and we are getting them in what we call "pre-bound" bindings, meaning that they have been taken out of their original bindings and enclosed in good buckram which will stand a lot of punishment.

They are small books, pocket size (heaven help us), and the subject matter is centered around the San Francisco Bay area. But this is close enough to be included and to make the books valid for us. The two titles we have so far are SEASHORE LIFE OF THE SAN FRANCISCO BAY REGION and MUSHROOMS AND OTHER COMMON FUNGI OF THE SAN FRANCISCO BAY REGION. Many of the illustrations are in color. They were published by the University of California Press. Go slow on this mushroom bit because it's a good way to wake up dead some morning. Aren't we cowards?

Two new books on Germany are here. One is by Hans Rothfels and is entitled THE GERMAN OPPOSITION TO HITLER. The index is nothing but a complete list of the persons mentioned in the book, so don't look to it for a subject you wish to check. The other book is SEIG HEIL! by Morris Waldman. It is the story of Adolf Hitler. According to the jacket blurb, "Here, in a chronicle that is at one and the same time, history, biography, and a gripping suspense story, emerges the portrait of a people who traded their national soul for world conquest and in so doing, brought upon mankind suffering beyond belief and scars upon the psyche of all human beings that time may never heal."

The latest volume of poems by Carl Sandburg is called HONEY AND SALT. There are seventy-seven poems here by the eighty-five year old man who has been said to be America's favorite poet.

According to Myra Waldo, people drink wine because they enjoy it. Her recent book is called GUIDE TO THE PLEASURES OF WINE. She discusses wines of other countries and also wines of California, gives alcoholic content of the various wines and shows the glasses in which to serve them. Probably nothing in this book, but it is pleasant.

From Punch, and characteristic thereof, are the pieces by H. F. Ellis, and the drawing by Charles Saxon, which have been gathered

Some Confusion

(Continued from Page One) rage and murmurs of dismay from the residents of the narrow, placid little avenue, and a counter-petition vehemently opposing any tampering with traffic on Scenic, particularly if it would flood other streets with the sometimes aimlessly wandering parade of cars destined for the river beach or lost in hapless search for the Carmel Mission Basilica or Highway One.

Heated Meeting

If the meeting at Holiday Inn was intended — as Arnot cordially stated in his opening remarks — to find some grounds for amicable agreement amongst all parties, then it was curious that all parties were not invited. At least two people, John Walsh and Mrs. Robert B. McGinnis, said that they had not been notified of the meeting and had not been invited, but they were attending, anyway.

It did not take long for the barometer to fall and the storm to move in. Walsh accused Arnot not only of bad manners in failing to speak with the people on Seventeenth and Valley Way before going to the Board of Supervisors, he implied that it was a deliberate circumvention. Soon heated shouts were flailing the air.

Hogwash

"This is hogwash!"

"It's so confusing."

"I promised my husband I wouldn't get mad if I came to this meeting, but this is the stupidist thing I've ever heard in all of my life."

Arnot endeavored to have the people present fill out an "Opinion Poll," asking nine questions about traffic arrangements and regulation. "This is the most ambiguous set of questions I've ever seen," roared Walsh. "Who made it up?"

Arnot finally admitted that he had, "I'm just an ordinary guy," he apologized, "trying to help us all figure a way out of this problem."

"I tell all of you," shouted Walsh, "don't sign this thing!"

Most apparently didn't.

An Agreement

But an agreement was finally reached, to which Arnot begrudgingly acceded when his efforts to persuade the dissident majority to allow a one-month trial of his program failed. The agreement was to do nothing about the matter until a discussion was had with County Road Commission Bruce McClain. In the meanwhile, Supervisor Tom Hudson was to be asked to cancel the hearing on the 10th on an ordinance establishing the traffic pattern for a trial period.

What's the Problem?

Arnot has been patient, persistent and zealous in working for the plan, and there is no doubt that most people on the Point, irrespective of how they feel about the diversion of traffic on Scenic, are alarmed and depressed by the quantity of traffic invading their quiet byways. Arnot explains that he is merely trying to do something about the invasion, rather than sitting still and letting the problem engulf everyone. He is not explicit about how the one-way matter of restriction of traffic on Scenic will diminish or divert the volume — except on Scenic. But he is explicit about what is causing much of it: the state beach and parking lot.

While the lot soaked up a lot of street parking, it is now used to capacity, and the popular river mouth is drawing more and more sojourners. "Carmelo is full of cars; so are Seventeenth, Valley Way, and Rio. We've got to recognize the problem."

The problem with which Arnot is most concerned is the sharp curve at the parking lot, where the ends of Scenic and Carmelo converge. "There have been a number of serious smash-ups here. Cars going south hug the inside of the road, and collisions become almost inevitable." When dividing lines were suggested, Arnot's smiling response was, "They don't believe in lines on the streets around here."

It is certain that Arnot's one-way plan would alleviate, if not eliminate, the collision hazard at this point; there is no dispute about that. But two people discussing the matter after the meeting were bitterly agreeing with one another that Harold Arnot was seeking to have it done at their expense.

As of today, harmony on that part of Carmel Point is going to have to be a two-way street.

Southern Pacific

What they should do is make a show piece out of the Del Monte. Forgetting altogether the archaic function of transportation as merely a way of getting from point to point, they should turn the Del Monte Special into a reason all by itself for going on a train ride.

The should gift it with elegant cars, lashed on an old steam locomotive — at least between San Jose and the Peninsula — staff it from the rich resources of fine service scattered around its system, present dining, wining and convivial surroundings as an attraction unto themselves, with the point of return and the point of departure as incidental to the happy diversion of running back and forth between them.

America is today wistfully embracing the symbols of former elegance, graciousness and greatness that were the railroads in the days of steam. The SP has not alone the reason, it has the means (though it desperately needs the imagination) to make the Del Monte a lavish recollection on rails which would transform them from steel to gold.

Next week we are going to run a special feature, some ideas of Andre Hope, a loyal and passionate admirer of "The Little Old Lady" as she devotedly calls the Del Monte, which constitute some pretty exciting suggestions for a railroad renaissance.

ANCIENT FERTILITY RITES

President Kennedy observed the occasion by sending a telegram of greeting which was read to those attending.

"I send my best wishes to the people of Spain and particularly to those fathered in Mallorca on the occasion of the 20th anniversary of the birth of Fr. Junipero Serra, the founder of California," the President wrote.

bright goes outwards with it." Buffington rejoined, "I'll agree. But they've got to park somewhere."

The Council proceeded no further than these indicative remarks, other than to engage in the innocent parliamentary game of Stalemate, which they always play when one of the members is absent; because it is relatively harmless.

Blank's motion to continue the matter failed for lack of a majority: Blanks and Putnam, aye; Buffington and Spencer, no.

Then, the motion to adopt the report establishing the time limits failed, Blanks and Putnam, no; Buffington and Spencer, aye.

At that point, chairman Buffington vaguely asked the Business Association and the shadowy form of the Carmel Citizens Committee to examine the matter — even though the result of the two neutral votes was to abolish the matter into oblivion and technically beyond reach. But no one objected to the chair's imaginative resuscitation, and so the matter is still breathing, but heavily.

At an adjourned meeting next Wednesday night, the Council will consider the annual salary schedule for the next fiscal year. No surprises are in store.
